What are vaccines, and why do they matter?

Vaccines are products designed to trigger protective immune responses and prepare the immune system to fight future infections from disease-causing agents.

Vaccines stimulate the immune system's production of antibodies that identify and destroy disease-causing organisms that enter the body.

What to expect after vaccination?

Vaccines provide immunity against one or several diseases that can lessen the severity or prevent certain diseases altogether.

Experts agree that widespread use of vaccinations within the last century has prevented death and disease in millions of animals. Vaccinations protect your pet from highly contagious and deadly diseases and improve your pet's overall quality of life.

5 reasons to vaccinate your pet

Vaccinations prevent many pet illnesses.

1. Vaccinations can help avoid costly treatments for diseases that can be prevented.
2. Vaccinations prevent diseases that can be passed between animals and from animals to people.
3. Diseases prevalent in wildlife, such as rabies and distemper, can infect unvaccinated pets.

4. In many areas, local or state ordinances require certain vaccinations of household pets.
